

Open House New York – Features Ethnical Scavenger Hunt

To celebrate the historical diversity of communities in Queens, Queens Memory has organized an ethnical scavenger hunt in collaboration with Urban Archive and Open House New York. The scavenger hunt offers insights into local history and archives, while providing a walking-tour-turned scavenger hunt that Queens Memory has organized in the 21st century.

The scavenger hunt is released on October 5 and will be announced to the public. It will include questions about community leaders from the 1700s to the present, as well as a series of names that grace public spaces in the borough of Queens. Participants are encouraged to explore the historically diverse neighborhood of Elmhurst, Queens on this 21st-century scavenger hunt.

Exchange a Inscription into Local History and Archives

This program is being offered as part of a previous Queens College Public History class to document the Old Towne of Flushing Burial Ground, which is posted on the Queens College Public History Project website. Her results to date, and foundational research by Professor Johnathan Thayer's Public History course at Queens College.

Lori Rothstein is a student in the Graduate School of Library and Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science. She is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming. She is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

Visit Queens Memory for more details.

Location: Elmhurst Library, 86-07 Broadway

Time: 10 - 5pm EDT

Date: Saturday, October 21

Register here

We will follow up with a confirmation and event link. (12 - 1 pm EDT)

Upcoming Events

- Queen Name Explorer Spotlights
  - Landscape Architect and Community Advocate from Far Rockaway

  Antoinette Ali-Sanders, an accomplished Landscape Architect and Community Advocate from Far Rockaway, is co-named in honor of her contributions to the community. Ms. Ali-Sanders is a former resident of Forest Hills and later Douglaston, revisited by Lori Rothstein this summer to photograph sites for Queens Memory.

- Open House New York Weekend
  - Features Ethnical Scavenger Hunt

- Queens Memory Public History Oral History Program
  - Oral History Interviews

- Meet Our Citi Fellow
  - Lori Rothstein

- Upcoming Events

- Photo: Lori Rothstein

- Photo: Photo of Lori Rothstein

- Photo: View of Old Saint James Episcopal Church (built in 1735-36), J. Faye Yuan, 2023

- Photo: Outside of the fellowship, Lori is continuing her research project for Public History courses at Queens College.

- Photo: Her research focuses on documenting the Old Towne of Flushing Burial Ground, a historic cemetery in Queens, NY.

- Photo: Her results to date, and foundational research by Professor Johnathan Thayer's Public History course at Queens College.

- Photo: Lori Rothstein is a student in the Graduate School of Library and Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.

- Photo: Lori has worked as a newspaper journalist and is currently an editor at Information Science at Queens College, specializing in archival science.

- Photo: Lori is also exploring the Queens Public Library digital archives and the CUNY Graduate Center's RILM Abstracts of Music Literature, a database of scholarly writings on music and audio editing, and helping with our outreach and programming.